

May 2021 Blog

This month it's a blog for the guys or those of you who like to wear a shorter style.

Are you thinking about change?

Or maybe just up your look and trying a new haircut style? Look no further we got you covered.

The best thing to do if you feel like a change is book in first for a free consultation.

If you book a wash & cut but then decide on the day for a restyle there may not be enough time allocated so don't forget you can book the free consultation option a few days or weeks before your appointment.

When it comes to styling, there is much more to men's hair than short, medium, and long. Although length is a key part of a haircut but so is the parting, fringe, having a curl or taper fade and texture cut.

Fade haircuts are still one of the most popular and easiest men's hairstyle trends.

They are everywhere because a fade can be added to any type, length, or style of.

At the moment, just like I predicted it's been all about perms for the guys since coming back from lockdown no 3.

See our social media for some great before & after images.

Once you get your new look one thing we get asked a lot is what comb or brush to use, so here is a simple tutorial.

Brush or comb which works best?

This is an often-asked question with all sexes who visit the salon.

It seems simple but with all the options can be overwhelming but here is what you need to know.

Combs work best for straight hair, creating parts, styling hair or combing the conditioner through your hair.

If you have thick, wavy, or curly hair types then always use a wide- toothed comb to untangle hair and help distribute hair product thoroughly.

Hair brushes are for guys too and they work best to add volume to fine, straight, and long hair.

If it's a vent brush your using which is more square at the sides that can be used on any styes but not curly hair as brushing curly hair sends it frizzy, only comb or brush curly hair when its wet.

Brushes also help to speed to the hair drying process.

There are special blow-drying paddle brushes that also help hair dry faster as well as round brushes to straighten hair.

Brushing hair also helps distribute scalp oils and stimulate circulation or just do it because it feels good.

You can let hair dry naturally/air dry but if you blow dry your hair you will get a better finish.

Blow drying hair cuts down on styling time, helps hair stand tall, and makes it easy to straighten hair.

If your hair is permed or curly its best to use a diffuser on the end of your dryer to stop the curl or perm from going fizzy.

By spending a bit of time on the drying it will give you a sharp salon finish look that sets any day off to a good start.

I always say your hair is your crowning glory so any time you spend on it is time well spent.

By giving it that extra TLC you'll have soft, smooth, and shiny hair that just needs a touch of product for all-day hold.
